One of a series on the 'Energy Debate'. The various forms of biomass energy, means for their production and utilization, their costs, and the consequences for the environment are discussed in detail. Sidebars deal with arguments for and against, for example 'Biodiesel is a good fuel for vehicles?' and 'Land should be used to grow energy crops?'. Relevant case studies are boxed. The political difficulties of energy-wise policies are pointed out. Glossary, Books to read, Websites and Index are included.
